BOOK REVIEWS.

All book reviews are by the editor in chief unless otherwise expressly stated.

The Encyclopedia of United States Supreme Court Reports, being a Complete Encyclopedia of All the Case Law of the Federal Supreme Court up to and including Volume 206, U. S. Supreme Court Reports (Book 51, Lawyers' Edition), under the editorial supervision of Thomas Johnson Michie. Vol. 3. The Michie Company, Law Publishers. Charlottesville, Virginia. 1909. Price $6.00.

The third volume of this encyclopedic digest takes up the subjects from Banks and Banking through Conspiracy, the title Constitution, with a large number of cases thereunder to be taken up in the next volume under the title Constitutional Law. Digested are the important subjects of Bonds, Bills and Notes, Banks and Banking, Carriers, Citizenship, Civil Rights, etc. An examination of this volume increases the appreciation of the novel method of digesting the United States Reports adopted by the editor. The great principles of law as decided by the Supreme Court are laid down in paragraphs black-lettered and stating the conclusions of law in clear and concise terms. Placed as footnotes with proper black-letter headings are the citations from and names of the cases. One can therefore easily and at once see what the law is and then in the notes find the cases with proper citations to elucidate the general principles laid down in the text. The three volumes of the work thus far issued raise its value far beyond that of the ordinary digest. It is well named an encyclopedia and is as valuable as a book of law principles as it is in enabling the student to find the law.

A Treatise on the Law of Injunctions, by Howard C. Joyce of New York City. In three volumes. Albany, New York. Matthew Bender & Company. 1909. Law Buckram, price $16.50 net. After July 1st, 1909, $18.00 net.

The necessity of a new treatise upon the important subject of Injunctions has been apparent for some time. The present volume states the law as it is to-day and is perhaps the only modern work treating of the new branches, such as Labor matters, Contracts in restraint of trade, the Regulation of public service corporations, Unfair competition, etc.—in fact every phase of the law upon the subject seems to be carefully covered and we know of no work upon the subject which is as thorough, complete, exhaustive and up to date as these volumes which it has been a pleasure to examine for review. The author has availed himself of the new methods of law book writing and has paraphrased the different phases of his subject with
